

1. Tasks & Activities: This should be a description of what a person does in this job.

1. Identify at least four specific tasks or activities you would perform.

Links:

I Seek Careers

- Select the category your career is in
- Click on Careers in this cluster
- Select your career
- Click On the Job

World of Work

Career One Stop

Earnings: This should be a description of what a person gets paid for working in this career.

1. Identify the lowest, average, and highest hourly earnings.
2. Identify the lowest, average, and highest yearly earnings.

Links:

Career Overview

2. Formal Education & Training: This should be a description of what schooling, training, or qualifications a person needs in order to perform the job.

1. Identify the minimum degree you would need (associates, bachelors, masters, doctorate, etc)
2. Identify any education you would need to advance your career
3. Identify how many years of schooling or training (after high school) will be required.
4. Identify any certification or license you would be required to have.
5. Any other information you feel is important (classes, background checks, unions, physical requirements)

Links:

Career Requirement.com

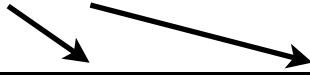

Google Search using job & education or job & requirements

3. Job Outlook: This should be a description of what job opportunities and openings there will be in this job field in the future. Think about five to ten years from now when you will be looking for a job.

1. Identify the average number of job openings per year in the U. S.
2. Identify what percent the job openings are predicted to increase by in the U. S.
3. Identify why this career’s job openings are increasing or decreasing.
4. Identify at least one way you can increase your chances of getting a job in this career.

Links:

Career One Stop (look under employment trends for no. 1 & 2)

United States	Employment		Percent Change	Projected Annual Job Openings ¹
	2012	2022
Computer Programmers	343,700	372,100	+8%	11,810

I Seek Careers (look under Wages & Outlook for no. 3 & 4)